

REGISTERED ONSITE WASTEWATER PRACTITIONERS (ROWP)

When someone lives in an area not serviced by a sewer system, which takes household wastewater away to a central treatment plant for discharge, they must have an in-ground treatment and disposal system. Commonly known as septic systems, they are now also known as sewerage systems because of the new regulation that governs their installation and use – the Sewerage System Regulation (BC Reg 326/2004).
