RESTRICTED ACCESS STATUS

The RDOS recognizes that recovery is a deeply personal and often challenging process. These measures are intended to provide residents with the ability to make decisions about who may access their property and assist with their recovery efforts.

Why is Restricted Access necessary?

While residents are being provided greater access to their properties, recovery operations remain ongoing and the continuation of emergency support services. Restricting access to authorized individuals helps ensure that recovery work can continue safely, efficiently, and securely.

Limiting unnecessary traffic and activity in the affected area will:

- Protect damaged homes, properties, and infrastructure.
- Support the ongoing work of emergency responders, utility crews, contractors, and recovery personnel.
- Reduce congestion and safety risks in areas where hazards may still exist.
- Help maintain the privacy, security, and well-being of residents as they recover from the impacts of the emergency.

Restricted Access measures are intended to discourage entry by:

- Unauthorized individuals.
- Trespassers.
- Sightseers and curiosity seekers.
- Individuals who are not residents and have no legitimate reason to enter the affected area.
- Media representatives who have not received authorization to access restricted areas.

The RDOS appreciates the patience, resilience, and cooperation of affected residents as recovery efforts continue. These measures are intended to support property owners, protect the community, and ensure that recovery can proceed as safely and effectively as possible.

Please note that an Evacuation Order or Alert may need to be reissued; however, if that is deemed necessary, the Evacuation Order or Alert process will recommence.
